Day 46-- Not a foot

Had a great day off with my friend Eric who flew up here from Dallas. He arrived last night and today we toured Santa Fe. We visited this ancient Catholic Church and after three weeks or so of looking I finally found a barber, well, at least a person with some shears! Her name was Sarah and she did the job for nothing after hearing of the ride's purpose. another Angel to add to the long list.

Tomorrow I head back into the heat of NM and back up to over 10,000 feet. Hopefully I'll find a place lower to sleep as around 9000 seems to be where my lungs start to struggle. anyway, this appears to be the last of the high stuff, after that I steadily get lower...ever closer to the border...
